

costume/education

Visiting Professor of Costume Design
Ohio University School of Theatre
Athens, Ohio

Ohio University School of Theater in Athens, Ohio, is opening a search for Visiting Professor of Costume Design beginning Fall 2012. This is a one year position with possible renewal. Salary is $45,000

The Production Design and Technology program is committed to collaborative design process and specialized training in theatrical design and technology. PD&T program focus is on professional preparation for New York, international, and regional theater markets.

Minimum Qualifications:

- MFA required
- strong background in professional theatrical design and entertainment industry, with connections to the New York and regional theater markets. Ongoing professional work is expected.
- Skills in graduate and undergraduate-level teaching.
- Ability to work in a collaborative relationship with faculty and staff.

Responsibilities:

To provide artistic and educational leadership for the costume design and craft construction area through supervising student designs, teaching costume design, intro to design skills, supervising craft shop, and providing guidance on student portfolio and professional internships. Additional duties include student recruitment and participation in production planning.

To access the online application follow this link;
<http://www.ohiouniversityjobs.com/postings/1889>

published December 16, 2011 - 60

